

Gabriel is a college student who's been cutting hair for a few years.

On weekends during the school year, he cuts his friends' hair for a few dollars at his apartment

Over the summer, Gabe has a lot more free time and wants to cut more hair for money and experience, but he only has so many friends with hair to cut.

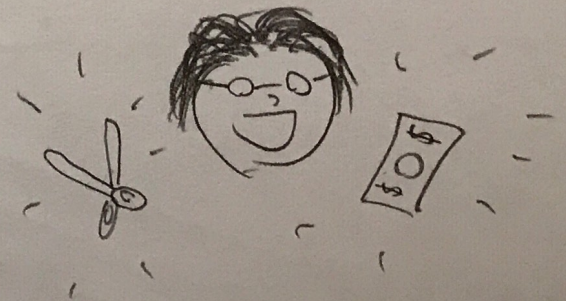

Gabe uses our app to advertise his skills and to get connected with customers looking for cheap haircuts customers find Gabe on the app, get connected, and show up at his apartment for haircuts

Gabe is able to fill up his free time in the summer with haircuts, while gaining experience and making money

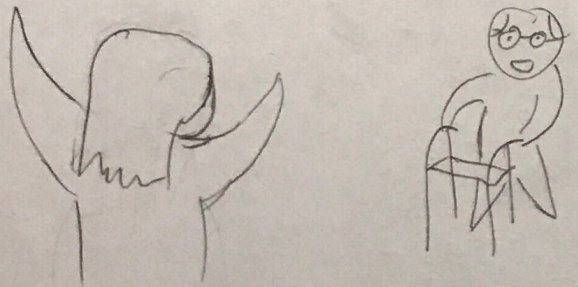

Bob is an 82 year old former chef at a local restaurant. He enjoys cooking at home but requires many frequent trips to the nearby market.

Unfortunately, he has to use a walker and is afraid of falling on his trips to the store. He decides to ask for help from his next door neighbor.

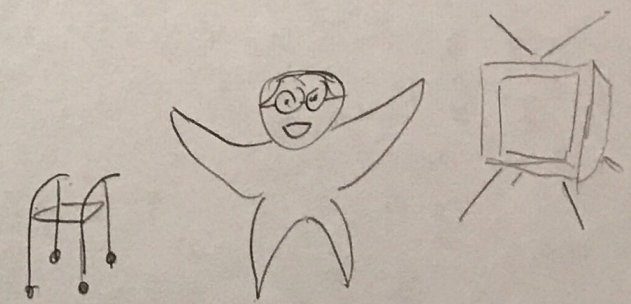

Bob learns of a web app that connects him with a volunteer/assistant to help him out during his errands. He decides to try it out.

Bob meets up with his assistant in just a few minutes, and then they leave for the market.

Along the way, Bob is helped by his assistant in many tasks, from reaching to the high shelves to grab specialty ingredients, to helping Bob navigate through the crowds

After the trip, Bob returns home and realizes that he is no longer scared of falling with someone there to help him, and it makes his shopping errands so much easier!
